Placing an Order With Us

You can place an order by:

- completing and signing the layby sale order;
- signing an ‘Authority to your Bank to Accept Direct Debits’ form; and
- make payments by direct debit or credit/debit card unless you are paying the outstanding balance in full
- providing any other information we request to assist our identity verification and order assessment.

If we accept your order we will advise you by telephone, email or in writing. Our acceptance is conditional upon receipt of the layby sale order and where paying by Direct Debit an ‘Authority to your Bank to Accept Direct Debits’ form being completed to our satisfaction.

If we are unable to supply the goods ordered, all money already paid by you to us in relation to the order will be refunded and we will not be liable to you or any person if we decline or are unable to fill the order for any other amount.

We may revise and/or discontinue products that we have advertised in our online store at any time without notice. By placing the order with us, you should be aware that certain products may not be available or may be limited in numbers.

The purchase price for the product is the price confirmed by us at the time we accept your order.

Payments

You may repay the balance of all the payments owing under your layby sale agreement at any time.

You are required to make the payments for each payment period as set out under the heading ‘Payment information’ on the layby sale order and you are required to pay the balance of your account at the end of the term.

If a direct debit payment dishonours:

- We may reschedule a dishonoured direct debit payment so that it debits your designated account on another date.
- A dishonour fee of $5 is payable and will be charged to your account.

We will deduct the payment for each payment period on the day specified in the ‘Payment information’ section of the layby sale order or if no day is specified then on a day we choose or otherwise by agreement.

Any payment you make pursuant to your layby sale agreement will be allocated to the order as follows:

- to any amount we incur in doing anything that you are required to do under your layby sale agreement;
- to any cost or expense that we incur in the exercise of our rights under your layby sale agreement including costs we incur in the enforcement of our rights under your layby sale agreement;
- to any dishonour fee or charge debited to your layby sale agreement; then
- equally to the goods purchased by you in an order.

Putting Your Payments on Hold

At any time before we have dispatched the goods, you can put your put your payments on hold for up to a total of 2 weeks, either consecutively (two continuous weeks) or a single week at different times.

To put your payments on hold you need to contact us before that payment is due and request a payment hold. If you do that, we will pause the direct debit for that week and you will not be charged a dishonour fee for that payment.

Vary the Payments & Extend the Term

If you fail to make a payment on time, we may, but are not obliged to, vary any payment amount or extend the time for payment. This could include extending the final payment date or changing the amount of the regular payments. Any change we make is entirely at our discretion.

Advance Payments and Delivery

Before we arrange delivery of the goods you must:

- make the advance payments on time; or
- pay the balance of your account in full.

If you fail to make an advance payment on time, the number of advance payments will increase so that after the dishonour in payment, you are required to make at least 4 consecutive advance payments on time.

Once you have made all the advance payments as required or paid the balance of your account, we will arrange delivery of the goods to you within fifteen (15) working days.

If you have made the advance payments but fail to make an ordinary payment before we deliver the goods to you (for example during our 15 working day delivery period), we may defer delivery of the goods until you have made at least 4 consecutive payments on time. If we decide to defer delivery because of a missed payment, we will contact you by phone, text or email to let you know that we have deferred delivery and the reason why.

We will deliver the goods to your residential address specified in the layby sale order. We will deliver via a courier service.

Where there is no-one at home to accept delivery, we may at our discretion either retain the goods at our offices for your collection or leave the goods at your residential address.

We will not dispatch any goods for delivery until the expiry of the cooling off period.

To the extent permitted by law, any time frame for delivery is an estimate only and we will use our best endeavours to deliver the goods on time. For the avoidance of doubt, the time for delivery is not of the essence for your layby sale agreement. However, if our failure to deliver is of substantial character, as defined in the Consumer Guarantees Act 1993, then you will have the rights set out in that Act.

Changing the Place for a Delivery

If you request that we send the goods to a different address than your residential address, as notified to us from time to time, you will be responsible for any additional cost we incur in sending the goods to you at that new address.

Your Right to Cancel

You are entitled to cancel the order at any time before:

- the expiry of the cooling off period;*
- you take delivery of the goods; and
- the expiry of the cancellation period, whichever is the later date.

If you cancel the order at any time before the expiry of the cancellation period, you can cancel by:

- returning the goods to our office in the exact condition as when they were delivered to you; and
- requesting a full refund of the amounts paid to your account in respect of that order.

If you cancel the order after the expiry of the cancellation period for that order but before the goods have been delivered, then you are entitled to a refund of all the payments you've made to the account for that order after we deduct the cancellation costs due or debited as at the date of cancellation.

If the amount due to be refunded to you is less than the total of the cancellation costs the agreement will be cancelled but we will be entitled to recover the balance of the cancellation costs owing from you as a debt immediately due and owing.

*Please note that no goods will ever be delivered before the expiry of the cooling off period. Nothing in this clause modifies your rights to cancel under ss 36M or 36F of the Fair Trading Act 1986 (FTA). If your layby sale agreement is an uninvited direct sale and we have failed to comply with the disclosure requirements set out in section 36L of the FTA (except to the extent that the failure to comply is minor and does not materially prejudice you (see section 36N(2) of the FTA), you retain the right to cancel your layby sale agreement at any time.

Statements

We will give you a statement on request in an electronic form. These statements will give you information about your account (e.g. the total price of the order, the payments you have made, the balance of your account, any dishonour fees charged during the statement period, a description of the cancellation costs that you would have to pay if you were to cancel the agreement and when and how the payment are required to be made.

The Goods

The goods remain at our risk until the goods are delivered to your address.

You must ensure when you receive the goods that those goods are the goods that you expected to receive, and you must inform us immediately if any of the goods do not match the goods advertised to you. However, if the exact model of a good is not able to be provided by our suppliers, we will offer you a replacement good with comparable or better features.

To the extent permitted by law and unless otherwise expressly agreed in writing, it is not a condition of your layby sale agreement that the goods will correspond precisely with the dimensions and specifications set out in the layby sale order and customary tolerances or, in the absence of customary tolerances, reasonable tolerances will be allowed.

Consumer Guarantees Act 1993

The goods will be fit for the ordinary purposes to which that type of good is ordinarily put.

If you have a specific purpose, which is in addition to the ordinary purposes, then you must satisfy yourself that the goods are fit and suitable for that purpose. To the extent permitted by law, we make no representation, give no warranties and expressly negate any implied or expressed condition that the goods will be suitable for that particular purpose or use.

To the extent permitted by law, you agree to accept all risk and responsibility for consequences arising from the possession or use of any goods purchased from us. Except to the extent of our responsibilities in the Consumer Guarantees Act 1993 and the remedies available to you in that Act and generally at law, we have no liability for any claim, loss, damage or expense of any kind whether direct, consequential or otherwise and caused directly or indirectly and by the goods or part of them.

If the goods are of unacceptable quality within the meaning of the Consumer Guarantees Act 1993, then you must notify us within a reasonable time following the delivery of the goods. If the goods are of an unacceptable quality we may, at our option:

- repair the goods; or
- replace the goods with goods of identical type; or
- where we cannot reasonably be expected to repair or replace the goods, provide a refund of any money paid by you in respect of the goods.

Where the goods have a failure of substantial character (as defined in section 21 of the Consumer Guarantees Act 1993) then you will have the rights set out in section 18.3 of that Act.

In some circumstances you may have the right to reject the goods when they are delivered. If you have this right and you elect to use it the goods must not have been disposed of, lost, destroyed or damaged after delivery to you or attached or incorporated into real or personal property. The goods must be returned or made available for us to take possession with all original packaging and be in a good order.

Consumer Protection Legislation

To the extent that the Consumer Guarantees Act 1993 and the Fair Trading Act 1986 apply to your layby sale agreement, you will have the rights set out under those Acts.
